OVERVIEW

Why Washington, DC?

---

Washington, DC is not just a smart city where innovators can plug into a world-class technology infrastructure and access, but with 140 miles of bike lanes, dozens of iconic monuments, FREE museums, ready-to-explore neighborhoods, and world-class restaurants, DC is just the place to be.

Washington, DC is a truly global city with a thriving and beautifully diverse local identity at its heart. Home to three major airports, all within miles of the city.

- Voted as the #1 City for Women in Tech by SmartAsset.
- Voted the #1 City in the World for Entrepreneurial Talent by GTCI.
- Ranked #1 park system of US cities according to the Trust for Public Land,
- and DC is the first LEED Platinum city in the world.

DC's walkability and world-class public transportation system makes the city a top choice.

Now is the right time for NOHS to experience the magic of Washington, DC.

Just A Little ABOUT DC

Population: About 702,000 live in DC proper; more than 6.2 million live in the greater DC metro area.

Peak Season: March and June are the busiest months, followed by September and October.

Climate: DC experiences all the seasons: warm summers, cool and sometimes snowy winters and pleasant springs and falls.

Lay of the Land: The Nation's Capital is located in the MidAtlantic region between Maryland and Virginia, 225 miles south of New York City. Washington, DC is laid out on a grid with quadrants: Northeast, Northwest, Southeast and Southwest. Streets denote their quadrant with NE, NW, SE or SW. The numbered streets run north-south, the lettered streets run east-west and diagonal streets have state names, which adds to the uniqueness of the city.

Few destinations offer as many exciting free things to do as Washington, DC. From awe-inspiring monuments and memorials to world-renowned events, there is something free for everyone to enjoy.

- Witness the majestic monuments and memorials under moonlight – Free.
- Explore 17 Smithsonian museums and galleries, including the National Zoo – Free.
- Experience vital art from Renaissance masters to modern-day marvels at the National Gallery of Art – Free.
- Catch a daily performance at The John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts' Millennium Stage – Free.
- Check out the magnificent Library of Congress, the largest library in the world – Absolutely Free!

Getting Around WASHINGTON, DC

CARS

Taxis in DC accept credit cards. Fares start at $3.50 and are metered. A 15-20% tip is customary. Uber and Lyft also provide service throughout the metro DC area, and include options ranging from rideshares to luxury SUVs.

ON FOOT

DC has numerous public parks and walkable neighborhoods, making navigation on foot easy. Order a free map today on washington.org.

ON BIKE

Cruise around DC on a battery-powered scooter or one of the bike-sharing systems that serve the area, such as Capital Bikeshare. You can also rent wheels and a helmet from Bike and Roll DC.

METRO

Metro transit services make DC accessible and easy to navigate. The underground train and citywide bus system (Metrorail and Metrobus) serve the area. Most major hotels and attractions are near Metrorail stops. Tip: The new Silver Line is projected to connect to Dulles International Airport in July 2020

Meet the 2021 NOHS Conference Coordinator

Janine
Spinola Taylor, EdD.

I believe if you are alive then you have a destiny to fulfill, a legacy to leave behind.

Janine Spinola Taylor has over 20 years experience in non-profit, for profit, federal, and state government agencies for the following agencies: Internal Revenue Service and Executive Office of Health and Human Services as an auditor for Medicaid and revenue manager for the Commonwealth of Massachusetts wherein she managed 691 million dollars. She has conducted youth workshops entitled "Why are you afraid to be a Lady?" Janine was co-presenter with her son Henry for Boston Public School's Bridging the Gap Conference. Together they addressed family engagement and their workshop was titled "Collages, Mosaics and Tiles." She served two years as program coordinator for the Coca-Cola Pre-College Leadership Program at Morehouse College, which serves 30 young men selected for participation across the United States. Her oral history is registered in the United States Library of Congress. Presently, she serves as Assistant Professor at Springfield College, School of Social Work and Behavioral Sciences whereby she is the progenitor of the Organizational Leadership program.
